

Alliance for International Youth Development

Who We Are

The Alliance for International Youth Development (AIYD) is a community of practice and advocacy platform of leading US-based youth and community development organizations.

Over the past year, AIYD has established relationships with Congressional leaders and brought them up to speed on the status of youth development in US international assistance programs. We have engaged senior policy makers at our meetings, including to the Counselor to UNICEF, Rich Greene, and USAID's Youth Coordinator, Mike McCabe. Our efforts engaging Congressional leaders resulted in Senate Report language and a letter from Representative Ami Bera to the USAID Contractor. We see Capitol Hill engaging USAID in positive dialogues to advance youth development globally.

In 2020, AIYD is playing a key role in:

- Educating Congress on how the US can have the greatest positive impact on young men and women around the world
- Informing policy proposals and strategies as they take shape on Capitol Hill as well as the State Department and USAID
- Garnering media attention around this vital area

- Sharing valuable insights on US Government activities around youth development

---

About Our Membership

AIYD members enjoy engagement and collaboration with other leaders in the field of youth development, information sharing on the latest developments in US bilateral agencies' activities in this area, connections to important actors in the space inside and outside government, influence in key policy discussions, access to state of the art tools and approaches and recognition of your organization's successes and contributions. A full list of member benefits can be found here.

---

Learn More

Alliance for International Youth Development
Contact us: info@theyouthalliance.org
www.theyouthalliance.org